

CNMT 210 Fall 2015 Final Project - About & Portfolio - Starting Point
Checkpoint Date: 11/24/2015

The following are the requirements for the About and Portfolio pages of your site. The pages should be called about.html and portfolio.html and should be in the root of your directory hierarchy. The pages should build on the template that you created earlier; Therefore, those requirements are not repeated here.

about.html

Body

The body of the page should contain a section about yourself along with a table. The table should contain a linked list of your favorite web sites along with a description of those sites. The table should contain headings and be styled with a visually appealing alignment and look along with appropriate fonts.

The about.html page should not have a sidebar but the content in the body should take up the entire (default) width of the body as if the sidebar didn't exist.

portfolio.html

Body

The body of the page should contain four sections. Two sections should contain images with text wrapping around them (see example on page 2). Two sections should have multiple levels of headings.

Sidebar

The sidebar should be prominently displayed and should contain content different than that found on other pages.

Print View

There should be a print view without images.
